

DISASTROUS FIRE.

Frame Block, Carter, Vista and Lambill, destroyed—loss about $50,000.

At 2 o'clock this morning the fire broke out in the Wash saloon on the west side of First street, between Yamhill and Taylor. It communicated to L. F. Powers' furniture store adjoining, then to the building on the corner of Yamhill, occupied by Old & Summers, and others, and soon the entire corner as far back as the Anthon Salomon Lamp street was involved. The building being brick, shocked the flames. When it was first discovered it had reached considerable proportions, and as the police burst in the front door a great volume of flame burst out, severely indicative of explosion. Powers' were so closely situated the saloon that a stream could not be got between the buildings, and as Powers' store was one long room, extending through to Second street, it with its contents of dry wood-work was soon alight.

Efforts of the department could not be exerted on one place, and in one street was capable of coping with the fire in hand. So the men had to retreat step by step, leaving the old buildings to burn, and the Adams & Ingardos.

Owing to the fatigues of the hour, accurate statements of losses and insurance cannot be given, but the following are approximate: L. F. Powers, building and stock, $15,000; insurance $8,000, with White & Biggs' loss of the stock stored.

Old & Summers carried about $15,000 stock, insured for $8,000. A considerable part of their stock was saved in damaged condition.

The corner buildings were owned by Tyler Wood and the Cook estate, and are partly insured; loss about $6000.

Fredenal & Hobie, dentists, also above Old & Summers, lost most of their effects.

Davison, the photographer, loses most of his stock; partly insured.

The Wash saloon was owned by J. Stephens; probably fully insured. The proprietor could not be found. The building occupied by him was owned by Mr. Durkee, loss, $200; insured.

O. A. Alsky—brick building occupied by Amerson, $500; insured.

The stocks of Myers, pawnbroker, Gumbert, cigar dealer and bar, and Harry Overstreet, jeweler, were damaged by water and removal.

Taylor Young & Co., druggists, had a large fire in their drugstore, but the damage was not great. The building is in the way of the street, so the fire was easily controlled.

A. B. Brown, of the United States marine hospital service, has a large house on Yamhill street, which was completely destroyed. Dr. Brown is still in the city, however, and so far as we know, is not seriously injured.
